AAC Inc. has been providing successful technology consulting services and support to Federal, State and Local and commercial customers since 1983. Focusing on our core competencies of Network Engineering, Information Assurance, and Convergence (the integration of voice, video, and data), we have established an excellent reputation providing solutions and services to our customer base.   This past performance means we understand not just technology, but how government agencies actually operate. Many companies offer network engineering and management capabilities, but few focus them as we do. AAC helps organizations expand their capabilities and maximize their performance with voice, video, data, mobile, and wireless technologies. We use those components as individual solutions or within consolidated networks that enable our customers to meet their strategic needs and drive new business efficiencies–both now and in the future.
